A DINWIDDIE BARBECUE

STIRRING SPEECHES BYMR, M'KEN-ENY AND OTHER DEMOCRATS.

Opening of the Third District Conference of the Y. M. C. A.Brunswick Circuit

PETERSBURG, VA., Oct. 13.—Special.—There was a grand Democratic barbecue at Trinity church, in Dinwiddie county, to-day, and a large crowd was in attendance. Stirring speeches were made by Hon. William R. McKenney, the Democratic nominee for Congress from this district, Hon. William B. McIlwains and other prominent speakers. Mr. McKenney and other speakers will address the people of Sussex county at Stony Creek on Wednesday, October 24th.

A prominent Democrat of Prince George, who was in the city to-day, told me that he thought that McKenney would certainly tearry the county. He said he did not think the Populists would make any nomination for Congress, and that 25 per cent. of the negroes of the county would not vote at all.

The McKenney Democratic headquarters would not vote at all.

The McKenney Democratic headquarters will be established on next Monday over the store at No. 134 Sycamore street. A large banner is to be stretched across the street in front of the building.

The daring train robbery on the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad, near Quantico, last night, has been much talked of here to-day, and the accounts of it have been read with much interest.

Revercomb Chapman.

COVINGTON, VA., Oct. 13.—Special.—
The event of the week was the marriage of Miss Lizzle F. Chapman and Mr. George A. Revercomb on Wednesday night at the Baptist church. The bride is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Rev. S. F. Chapman, who officiated on the occasion, and Mr. Revercomb is a promising young lawyer of our town. The church was beautifully decorated with fall flowers and the varied colors of autumn leaves.

with fall flowers and the varied colors of autumn leaves.

The bride wore an exquisite Canton crepe, sent by her brother, who is a resident of China. First came two little flower girls, sisters of the bride, followed by eight bridesmaids, dressed in soft white mull and yellow ribbons, carrying yellow and white dahlias, who marched around the aisies to meet the bride, who came in with her sister, the maid of honor, and met the sroom at the altar.

Maid of honor, Miss Ella Chapman; best man, Mr. Howard Revercomb; Misses Mary and Beatrice Chapman, flower girls.

A reception was held at the house of the parents. The bride and groom left on the 12:30 train for an extended tour North and West.

McDonald and linthaway,

McDonald and flathaway.

WHITE STONE, VA., Oct. 12.—Special.
J. J. McDonald, the Republican nomine for Congress in this district, spoke here last night to about seventy-five negroes and twenty-five white men; most of the latter were Democrats, gathered there through curiosity. His speech was tame and filled with reckless staremants. It even failed to elicit any applause, except twice from the negroes.

About the time he was finishing several more Democrats came into the hall, and loud calls were made for Hon. Howard Hathaway, who responded in his charsetristic eloquent, louical and forcible way to 'skin' McDonald. The latter got his hat and coat and left, carrying some negroes with him. In all, the Democrats were greatly helped by this Republican meeting, and the result will be seen on election day.

EWANDON'S CANVARD. DANVILLE, VA., Oct. 12.—Special.— Wea. Claude A. Swanson, the Demo-cratic candidate for Congress, after mak-ing a thorough canvass of the western counties of this district is now starting on a canvass of Pittsylvania county.

He spoke to a large and enthusiastic crowd in Neapolis to-night, and will speak at Chatham on Monday.

RACE TRACK, MORRIS PARK, N. Y., Oct. 13.—The rain storm which deluged the track this afternoon had a depressing effect, not only on the attendance, but also on the entire proceedings. The condition of the track was vile, and it was a case of first away and get the money, as no horse could make a waiting race and move up in the blinding mud which liew from the heels of the leaders.

There were two hig events on the card—the Nursery stakes for two-year-olds and the third all-age-serial handicap. In the lormer race Griffin took Brandywine to the front almost at the start, and, at a pace that soon plunged the others into difficulties, winning by two lengths, Counter Tenor, who was an added starter in this race, was backed at remunerative figures, but swerved badiy in the stretch, and was beaten by Halma for the place. In the race for the third all-age-serial handicap Sir Walter made hacks of his field, and never allowed anything to get near enough to him to be dangerous, lie won by a length from Sir Excess, who beat Bassetiaw a length and a half for the place. WILSON AT MORGANTOWN

THE GREAT TARIFF REFORMER SPEAKS TO 4,900 PEOPLE.

Entertained at Night by Students of the State University, of Which He Was at One Time President.

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., Oct. 13.—Congressman W. D. Wilson arrived here at 8:39 o'clock this morning, and was met by the W. L. Wilson Students' Club, of the State University, of which he was at one time president, Large delegations, aggregating two to three thousand, came in from Pittsburg, Fairmont, and other towns, all delegations being met by the Students' Club.

John J. Brown opened the meeting in the Courthouse Square at 10 o'clock, ex-Governor Fleming, of West Virginia, also speaking on the tariff and force bliss. Mr. Wilson came at 1:39 P. M., and spoke for half an hour, when rain began falling, thinning out the crowd of over four thousand. He devoted his speech to the lariff, world's markets, defence of the Democratic Congress, defended the income tax, and arraigned the Republican congressmen for opposing it. His reference to the Income tax was received win applause. "Not alone," he said, "will the poor be taxed, but the rich as well, under this provision of the new tariff law."

John Marrion, a prominent Futtsburg lawyer, followed. He said in reference to Sherman's Akron (Ohio) speech of yesterday, that Senator Sherman was not, and had never been, an extreme protectionist, Ed. He at once went to Democratic State headquarters, in the Park-Avenue Hotel, where the Senator had a talk with Secretary Defores; and Lieutenant-Governor Saceban. He fixed up his senedule of meetings for next week as follows:

Monday evening, Kingston; Tuenday afternoon and evening, Little Falls; Wednesday evening, Gloversville; Thursday evening, Recaester; Friday evening, Hoffalo, On Saturday night the Senator will speak in a town in the western part of the State.

NEW YORN STATE DEMOCRACY.

The executive committee of the New York State Democracy held another meeting in Cooper Union this afternoon. It remained in session two hours. William R. Grace presided, Resolutions were passed authorizing the district leaders to get up petitions for signatures for the nomination of candidates. This action was taken, Mr. Grace said, so that in the event of there be ny any difficulty in having their candidates recognized, they will be nominated by petition as well as by party.

The slates for aldermanic and assembly nomination was taked over at some length. It was evidently the feeling of all present that neminations should be made in each district in the city, and that all disaffected Tammany men by taken up, NEW YORK STATE DEMOCRACY.

There was a party around one of the small tables on the veranda of the Columbia Athletic Club the other evening when the talk turned on the Washington Monument, and from that drifted to obelisks in general.

"Well, one of the most pleasant recollections I have to look back on," said Adam Johnson, who was one of the party, "is the fact that I was one of the party that helped to run up the American colors over Cleopatra's Needle when it was being taken down to be caried to New York, Our vessel was out in the Mediterranean with a roving commission, and we were at Alexandria at the time the obelisk was being moved. The big stone had been presented by the Egyption Government to this country, but the people were wild about having it moved. We had to place a guard around the men who were working on the shaft, and even then there was almost a riot.

it moved. We had to place a guard around the men who were working on the shaft, and even then there was almost a riot.

"But that was one of the prettiest pieces of engineering work I have ever seen. The eagineers who were moving our shaft had a couple of bix wooden cases built that fitted around the needle like the pieces of wood around the lead in a pencil. There were a couple of projections on each side of the casings just on the center of gravity in the shaft, like the turnions on a cannon. Under these they put lifting jacks and just picked that immense stone off its pedestal, swing it around horizontally and then lowered it as gently as could be on a long sliding way, with cannon balls under it for rollers. They had a square hole cut in the stern of the steamer, and slid it into the hull through that and replaced the sheathing outside.

"Under the shaft in the inside of the pedestal there were a lot of bronze toads and ornaments, and the Lord knows what not, that the Miscons claimed were placed there by some of their progenitors acons ago. I don't know anything about that, though, and you can leave it or take it, as you choose.

"The British were not half so slick with the obedsk they carled over to England. They cased it up in a big pheet-iron arrangement like a boiler, riveted it in and floated the whole thing off through a trench dug in the sand down to the water. Then they rigged jury salls on it and towed it over to England, but they lost three or four men off it before they got it in port, and had all sorts of a time generally.

"A couple of years afterward i saw the British obeliks set up on the east bank of the Toames, and when I came home the first thing I went to see was curs in Central Park."—Washington "Post."

The Encyclopaedia Eritannica was the original, and is the model which all others have essayed to copy. As it was the first, so it ever was, is now, and probably ever will be the standard. The success of the first edition was such as to prove to the publishers its true importance and the desirability of a more comprehensive scheme than at first adopted, and its reception inspired them quickly to revise and enlarge it. Obedient to the demands of the literary world, it has appeared in nine editions.

The completion of the last edition enabled the public to measure this mighty work. The verdict places it beyond the possibility of rivalry. It is a glant where others are pigmies. Keeping pace with a century's intellectual growth, the Britannica presents the gathered knowledge of the world. Into its treasury the crowned heads of the kingdom of brains have poured their offerings, until to-day it stands the one only adequate representative of the scholarship of the world—the monumental work of English literature.

The Encyclopaedia Britannica has received contributions from more than 1,5% authors; their names embrace the most eminent scholars in Great Britain, America, Germany, France, Italy, Scandinavia, and every other part of the civilized world. The Britannica furnishes the amplest means to guide the inquirer to an independent opinion on the subjects that most profoundly agitate the human mind, and concerning which men are most anxious to be informed. "The Century Wa Enek"
Captain William H. Powell, of the Fourth Regular Infantry, in "The Century War Book," thus describes the retreat upon Washington after the disastrous battle of Bull Run:
"The last volley had been fired, and as night fell upon us the division of regulars of Porter's corps was ordered to retire to Centerville. It had fought hard on the extreme left to preserve the line of retreat by the turnpike and the stone bridge. We were gloomy, despondent, and about 'tired out;' we had not had a change of clothing from the 14th to the 31st of August, and had been living. In the words of the men, on 'sait-horse,' hard-tack,' and 'chicory juice.' As we filed from the battle-field into the turnpike leading over the stone bridge we came upon a group of mounted officers, one of whom wore a peculiar style of hat which had been seen on the field that day, and which had been the occasion of a great deal of comment in the ranks. As we passed these officers, the one with the peculiar hat called out in a loud voice: "What troops are these?"
"The regulars,' answered somebody.
"Second Division, Fifth Corps,' replied another."
